St. Mary-Corwin Hospital:
A Tale of Two Beginnings

In 1882, a two-story boarding house in Pueblo, Colorado was converted into St. Mary's Hospital by the Sisters of Charity. That same year, Colorado Fuel & Iron Company established Corwin Hospital for its employees and their families. The company transferred ownership of Corwin Hospital to the sisters in the late 1940s, creating St. Mary-Corwin Medical Center. Today, St. Mary-Corwin Hospital continues this legacy of compassionate, outstanding care dating back to 1882.

Introducing the 1882 Society

Our 1882 Society recognizes those who give an annual amount of $1,882 or more to St. Mary-Corwin Health Foundation. The Society's philanthropic spirit recognizes the humble beginnings of our ministry and continues our 130-year legacy of caring for those who live and work in southeastern Colorado.

Contributions allocated to the Society's unrestricted fund give St. Mary-Corwin the flexibility to respond to changes within the healthcare environment, as well as the fiscal freedom to pursue innovative solutions.

An annual membership with the 1882 Society ensures your commitment to Pueblo and our healing ministry—enabling St. Mary-Corwin Hospital to continue providing high-quality, whole person care for generations to come.
